

2022 Fractional Exhaled Nitric Oxide (FeNO)

This document is a quick coding reference for healthcare providers billing for FeNO testing and related services. Although the information has been checked for accuracy and completeness, Circassia does not accept responsibility or liability with regard to errors, omissions, misuse, or misinterpretation. It is the responsibility of the healthcare provider to select the codes that accurately reflect the supplies and services and procedures performed during each patient encounter. The codes listed in this document are not intended to be an exhaustive list of all possible codes.

REPORTING EVALUATION AND MANAGEMENT CODES* WITH FeNO TESTING

- ◆ The E/M service must be significant
- ◆ The problem must warrant physician work that is medically necessary
- ◆ This can be defined as a problem that requires treatment with a prescription or a problem that would require the patient or family to return for another visit to address it
- ◆ A minor problem or concern would not warrant the billing of an E/M 25 service
- ◆ The E/M service must be separate
- ◆ The problem must be distinct from the other E/M service provided (e.g., preventive medicine) or the procedure being completed
- ◆ Separate documentation for the E/M 25 problem is helpful in supporting the use of modifier 25 and especially important to support any necessary denial appeal
- ◆ The separately billed E/M service must meet documentation requirements for the code level selected
- ◆ May be based on time spent counseling and coordinating care for chronic problems
- ◆ AAFP states that the key is recognizing when your extra work is “significant” and, therefore, additionally billable. CPT does not define “significant,” but the provider should consider the following:
 - Did you perform and document the key components of a problem-oriented E/M service for the complaint or problem?
 - Could the complaint or problem stand alone as a billable service?
 - Is there a different diagnosis for this portion of the visit?
 - If the diagnosis will be the same, did you perform extra physician work that went above and beyond the typical pre- or postoperative work associated?

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

IS FeNO TESTING COVERED AND REIMBURSED BY ALL PAYERS?

Currently all Medicare and Medicare Advantage plans, plus many private payers and Medicaid payers, cover and reimburse FeNO testing when medically necessary. FeNO testing and the list of covering payers continues to grow as they receive claims from healthcare providers and become more familiar with the test. Please contact either your local Circassia representative or The Pinnacle Health Group for specific payer coverage guidelines and information.

IS A MODIFIER REQUIRED WHEN REPORTING AN OFFICE VISIT WITH FeNO?

See the criteria outlined above for requirements when reporting an office visit code (established or new patient) with FeNO testing. Most plans will require the use of modifier 25, however, some private payers may require providers to report modifier 59. Providers should check the use of modifier criteria for each private plan.

WHAT SHOULD WE DO IF A PAYER DOES NOT COVER FeNO TESTING?

Contact your contracted insurance payer to determine if it allows benefits for FeNO. If a payer does not cover FeNO testing, physicians in your practice are in the best position to dispute any noncoverage policies. Circassia can provide information to your practice, such as a bibliography of clinical effectiveness evidence, which can be helpful in a request for FeNO coverage.

DO PAYERS REQUIRE THAT THE PATIENT HAVE AN ASTHMA DIAGNOSIS TO GET A FeNO TEST?

In most cases, no, but certain payers may restrict coverage to patients with an asthma diagnosis. FeNO testing is medically appropriate to identify the presence or absence of steroid-responsive airway inflammation in patients with asthma-like symptoms (such as chronic cough) or diagnosed asthma. If a payer denies coverage for a medically appropriate use of FeNO testing, a physician may elect to protest the payer’s policy.

HOW MUCH WILL THE PHYSICIAN BE PAID FOR THE FeNO TEST?

The national average Medicare payment for CPT 95012 in CY2022 is $19.38 (including patient coinsurance). Please contact your local contracted payers to determine their allowable payments for private plans.

DOES THE FeNO PROCEDURE (CPT 95012) INCLUDE PHYSICIAN WORK?

This code does not include physician work. CPT 95012 has been assigned 0.55 practice expense relative value units (RVUs) and 0.01 malpractice RVUs for a total RVU value of 0.56.
